THE WINE CELLAR INSIDER

91-93/100

Jeff Leve

Flowers, wet earth, black cherries, and licorice show in the nose. On the palate, the wine is round, fresh, juicy, and fruity. The vibrant finish leaves you with black cherries, cocoa, spearmint, and licorice on the back end. Drink from 2025-2042.

Fresh. Lifted. Quite rich. Lovely intense violets, lavender and wild rosemary on the nose. Very expressive aromatically, and in fact rather more delicate than one might at first imagine on the palate. Very much a Merlot-defined Margaux, though with the florality and green peppercorn notes coming from the Cabernet and Petit Verdot. Quite sweet on the palate, turning the violet towards Palma violet. Refined, soft and succulent with fine-grained tannins, an enticing plump dark berry fruit – blueberry and raspberry; maybe a little damson too. Very fine.

Olivier Poels

Acquise par la famille Perrodo en 2020, cette propriété renaît doucement avec un vin très gourmand, aux notes de fruits rouges écrasés et à une belle dynamique de bouche. A suivre.

INSIDE BORDEAUX

92/100

Softer shape to this than many wines in the appellation, a reflection of the clay limestone soils that make it pretty atypical for Margaux, and here the spices highlight nutmeg and cinnamon along with ripe damson fruits, fresh acidities that give a welcome kick of juice on the end.

Deep garnet-purple in color, it starts off a little closed and sluggish, soon unfurling to offer scents of baked plums, blackberry compote, and chocolate-covered cherries, with hints of charcoal and bay leaves. The full-bodied palate is chock full of juicy black fruits, supported by firm, grainy tannins and just enough freshness, finishing with herbal lift.

JEB DUNNUCK

90-92/100

The 2022 Chateau La Tour De Mons has lots of classy cassis and violet notes, as well as nicely integrated background oak. Medium-bodied on the palate, I love its balance, it has silky tannins, and it's just about seamless.
