

CLIMATE

The autumn and the winter following the harvest are too rainy and too mild. Mars surprises with abnormal high temperature. The vineyard is mistaken and already believes in the return of the fine weather.

The virulent frosts of April bring it back to reality by mowing its tender leaves barely hatched. A flowering in the moisture spares the cabernet-sauvignon more than the merlot.

Summer is in the norm. The rains return during the harvest. We hold on and pull the grape varieties till maturity.

TASTING NOTES

Deep garnet.

First nose : a bouquet of red fruits mixed with fresh peppermint, curry spices and linden blossom.

After stirring : aroma of blackcurrant, and morello cherry on a mineral background.

Franck attack.

Suppleness in the mouth, powerness, without an excessive opulence.

Tannins are fine, finely woven, almost chalky.

Long finish très chic.
